

STEM Exhibits at the Children's Museum

Aug 15, 2011 @ 01:54 PM photos taken by VICTORIA CRUZ-GRIFFITH / Observer-Dispatch

Hamilton College's Outreach Adventure Students assisted children visiting the Children's Museum build STEM projects - science, technology, engineering, mathematics exhibits that will go into a new section.

8-15-2011 Hamilton College Students work on a STEM project that will go into an exhibit at the museum.

8-15-2011 Hamilton College students Kelsey Crow and Logan Roberts work on a STEM exhibit at the Children's Museum.

8-15-2011 Dominic Colangelo, of Utica, plays with police cars and fire trucks.

8-15-2011 Bryce and Xavier Mclae of Utica play in the construction exhibit.

Children sit in a mock plane. Children and college students alike spent the day at the Children's Museum in Utica.